Higgsfield, Seedance 2.0 mini, text to video, 480p, 15 s, vertical 9:16, audio on Photoreal live-action comedy, vertical 9:16, 15 seconds. A brightly lit late-night convenience store, white shelves, a large blue plastic shopping basket on the floor.

CLERK: fictional adult woman, mid 20s, round face, pastel-pink chin-length bob, does not resemble any actor. Blue store uniform shirt with a name badge with no legible text, black trousers, white sneakers. Calm, bored expression the whole time.

MEN: four men in identical black suits and black ties, short dark hair, sunglasses.
0-3s, medium: the clerk in the blue uniform stacks instant noodle cups from the blue basket onto a low shelf. A full row of noodle cups stands at her feet. The door chimes.
3-10s, ONE unbroken wide shot, the camera tracks sideways along the aisle, no cuts: the four men in black suits rush at her down the aisle. She steps aside without looking up and the first man runs straight past into a snack shelf, bags of chips raining down. She bends to pick up one noodle cup and the second man flies over her back. She nudges the row of noodle cups with her sneaker; they roll across the floor, and the last two men step on them, slip and land on top of the first two in one pile. Snacks keep falling. She never touches any of them.
CUT TO 10-12s, close-up: the clerk sits on the upturned blue basket, peels the lid off one noodle cup and pours hot water from a kettle.
CUT TO 12-15s, two-shot: behind her the four men lie in a heap under chip bags. One lifts his head. She slurps one mouthful with chopsticks and says, without turning, "We close at six." Hold on her chewing.
Sound: door chime, running shoes, crunching chip bags, a pile-up thud, kettle pour, one slurp. Her line in natural English. No music, no on-screen text, no logos.
