Higgsfield, Seedance 2.0 mini, text to video, 480p, 15 s, vertical 9:16, audio on Early-2000s DV camcorder home video, vertical 9:16, 15 seconds, handheld by an unseen friend, soft focus, grain, slightly blue white balance, fresh morning snowfall.

WOMAN: fictional adult, 22, round face, straight black hair in two low pigtails, does not resemble any actor. Thick red knit beanie, cream puffer jacket, grey wool scarf, dark jeans, brown winter boots, a paper cup of cocoa.
0-3s: the woman in the red beanie steps out of a front door into deep snow, pulls up her scarf, turns to the camera and says, "It snowed overnight!"

3-6s: she walks down a quiet street, boots crunching, and holds her cocoa up to the lens like a toast, laughing.
6-12s, ONE unbroken shot, no cuts: she stops beside a bare tree with one thick branch heavy with snow right above her. She sets the cocoa down, packs a snowball and throws it at the trunk. It misses. She pouts at the camera. She throws a second one, it hits the trunk with a thud, and the whole clump of snow drops off the branch onto her head.
12-14s: she shrieks, shakes the snow off her beanie, laughing, and says, "Okay, I deserved that!"
14-15s: she picks up the cocoa, waves at the camera with snow still on her shoulders. The recording cuts to black.
Sound: boots on snow, muffled street quiet, a snowball thud, a soft snow whump, her laugh. Lines in natural English. No music, no on-screen text, no timestamp.
