Create a 30-second high-energy Bollywood dance music video, vertical 9:16, 24 fps, one performer, edited in the rhythm of the music with fast cuts on the beat. Use the attached reference image as the exact identity of the dancer: same face, hair, costume and jewellery in every shot.

Set: an empty black stage with a single hard overhead spotlight making a round pool of light on a dark glossy floor; deep teal-black falloff, light haze in the beam, nothing else in frame. A fan blows her long wavy dark hair.

Costume (constant): red and pink lehenga choli with a gold border, sheer red dupatta, gold coin belt, gold choker, gold jhumka earrings, green and gold bangles, silver ghungroo anklets, bare feet, small red bindi.

0:00-0:02 medium frontal: wrists crossed at her chest in a classical mudra, she looks straight into the lens.
0:02-0:04 low close insert on her feet: the ghungroo stamp the floor on the beat.
0:04-0:07 medium to close: she flings the dupatta up over her head, then sharp hip isolations, the coin belt shimmering.
0:07-0:09 extreme close-up of her face: hair blowing, a slow confident smile, eyes to lens.
0:09-0:11 top-down overhead wide: she spins, the skirt flares into a full disc inside the pool of light.

0:11-0:14 medium: arms extended, hip accents on every beat.
0:14-0:15 extreme close-up of her eyes.
0:15-0:18 medium: hand gestures framing her face.
0:18-0:19 low angle: a deep back-bend, the dupatta sweeping the floor.
0:19-0:21 wide, backlit: her silhouette in the beam; she points at the camera.
0:21-0:23 extreme close-up: eyes closed, then open on the beat.
0:23-0:28 alternating medium and top-down wide: an arm sweep, then a second full twirl.
0:28-0:30 extreme close-up: the final look and smile into the lens; cut on the last beat.

Cinematography: glossy music-video polish, hard top light, crisp highlights on gold, shallow depth of field, cuts tighten in the last 8 seconds. Audio: an up-tempo Bollywood dance track with dhol and ghungroo hits, no vocals over the cuts.
