Create a ultra-realistic Korean action-comedy scene inside a crowded public bus in Seoul. A beautiful Korean woman in her 20s, wearing a white crop top, blue jeans and black boots, is standing while holding a support pole and checking her phone. A rude man suddenly shoves her aggressively, knocking her phone onto the floor, then laughs mockingly. She picks up her phone, gives him a cold stare, and he pushes her again. Suddenly, she grabs the handrail, dodges his movement and uses his momentum to throw him awkwardly across two empty passenger seats. Everyone turns around in shock. The embarrassed man tries to get up, but she points toward the CCTV camera and calmly says, "Smile. You're on camera!" He immediately freezes. She adjusts her bag, picks up her phone and walks away with a satisfied smile. Natural handheld camera, realistic physical movements, hilarious passenger reactions, authentic bus sounds, synchronized dialogue, cinematic live-action visuals, consistent characters, no cartoon physics or background music.
