Bua keeps slicing the paneer with exact surgical strokes and never looks up while she speaks, dry and precise; on the last word she flicks her eyes up once.
Background people at the far end are soft, out-of-focus blurred shapes, never a second copy of a featured character.
Locks: every character keeps the face, hair, glasses and outfit from their sheet for the whole shot; one head and two hands per person; no one changes seat; the table, dishes and diploma wall stay where they are.
Do not: add text, subtitles, captions, logos or watermarks; add music; add extra limbs or duplicate people; cut to another angle. Do not let anyone else speak; do not give her a scalpel or gloves.
Audio: SUNITA BUA speaks Hindi-English in a crisp, dry, precise voice, clear lip sync: "Haan, real doctor kab?" The soft scrape of the knife on steel. No music.

Create an exactly 5-second vertical 9:16 shot from a stylised 3D animated family comedy set at an Indian family dinner. Stylised 3D animated feature-film look: rounded appealing character forms, large expressive eyes, soft subsurface skin, soft volumetric warm light, rich saturated colour, polished family-film CG render.

World: Crowded Mumbai apartment dining hall at night; two long tables joined under a white lace cloth with steel thalis, a copper biryani handi and stacks of rotis; a wall covered in framed medical diplomas with blank certificates, warm pendant lamps and a cool blue city-light window.
Seating is fixed: DADI at the head of the table in front of the window, MAA standing at her right holding a steel bowl; on the diploma-wall side, from the near end: RAJIV MAMA, VIKRAM CHACHA, NANAJI; on the other side, from the near end: SUNITA BUA, MEERA DIDI, then one empty chair next to Dadi.
In frame: KABIR (16, messy black hair, charcoal hoodie with a small plain neon-green patch, white headset round his neck); RAJIV MAMA (round belly, black moustache, gold-rim glasses, cream kurta, silver stethoscope round his neck); VIKRAM CHACHA (slicked hair, thin moustache, huge white smile, navy polo with a dental mirror in the pocket); MAA (shoulder-length curly hair, pastel pink salwar kameez and dupatta); DADI (small, silver bun, thick black-frame glasses, maroon saree with a broad gold border, gold bangles).
Shot: 35mm spherical | 5s | STATIC | MEDIUM-WIDE. Kabir drops into the empty chair, slides his headset up onto his ears and leans back, smirking, while the relatives eagerly push every serving dish toward him and Maa pats his head. Background people at the far end are soft, out-of-focus blurred shapes, never a second copy of a featured character.
Locks: every character keeps the face, hair, glasses and outfit from their sheet for the whole shot; one head and two hands per person; no one changes seat; the table, dishes and diploma wall stay where they are.
Do not: add text, subtitles, captions, logos or watermarks; add music; add extra limbs or duplicate people; cut to another angle. Do not add new characters; keep everyone's outfit identical to the sheets.
Audio: The whole family laughing warmly, dishes sliding on the lace cloth, plates clinking. No music. No clear spoken line.

Music bed | model `elevenlabs_music_v2_5_instrumental` | engine invideo | audio | 46 s

Playful Indian family-comedy score, 46 seconds, bright and bouncy. 0-19 s: cheeky plucked sitar and pizzicato strings over a light tabla groove and a squeezy harmonium, mischievous, building a little each bar. 19-23 s: a big comic orchestral stab with dhol hits, then a sudden stop. 23-34 s: near silence, only a single low held tanpura drone, tense and comic. 34-46 s: the full band bursts back in, warm, celebratory and triumphant, tabla and dhol, sitar melody, ending on a bright final hit with a short tail. No vocals.
