One Stroke

14 s · vertical 9:16 · 6 prompts in build order · 15,438 characters

Every prompt behind this film, in order. It is open source. Remix it, rewrite it, make it yours.

Want the next one? Message @irushi.ai: https://ig.me/m/irushi.ai

These prompts ran in order and the later ones use reference images: the sheets, frames and stills made by the earlier image prompts. Make those first, then upload them with each later prompt where it says image 1, @Image1 and so on. The heading above each prompt names the tool and format it ran with.

Production package · nanobanana_pro · InVideo · 16:9 4K

Reference binding: image 1 is the existing character model sheet (TSUBAKI left, OBORO right): keep both designs exactly (faces, hair, wardrobe, brushes). Image 2 is the existing PAPER COURTYARD background sheet: keep the location, the gate, the paper floor, the stone weights, the inkstone basin and the dusk sky. Ignore both sheets' layouts, captions and palette strips.

One single production package board for an original 2D hand-drawn anime duel short, in the same traditional cel-animation style as the references (hard black ink outlines with tapering line weight, flat colour fills, two-tone cel shading with hard shadow shapes, hand-painted gouache backgrounds), laid out as a clean pre-production document on a dark charcoal background, 16:9, four clearly separated panels:

PANEL 1 (left column) CAST: TSUBAKI (young woman, 20: short asymmetric black bob longer on the left, one crimson streak in her fringe, dark-red eyes, thin ink smudge on her right cheek; white sleeveless crossed top, wide crimson sash tied at the left hip, black hakama, straw sandals, both forearms wrapped in ink-speckled white bandages) holding ONE giant calligraphy brush: a 2-metre pale bamboo shaft, crimson cord wrapped near the top, thick bristles soaked crimson. OBORO (tall man, 55: long silver hair in a high topknot, thin long moustache, narrow amused eyes; flowing black wide-sleeved robe with gold wave embroidery at the hems over a dark grey under-robe, round black inkstone pendant) holding TWO short black-lacquer brushes with black bristles, one in each hand. Each as a front full body plus a head close-up.

PANEL 2 (centre, the largest panel) SET FROM CAMERA A, dusk: the white rice-paper courtyard seen from the south edge at TSUBAKI's shoulder height, looking north to the dark wooden gate with its curved tiled roof and two unlit paper lanterns; the huge low sun behind the gate turns the sky dusk gold and crimson; cloud sea below; black stone weights along the paper edges. OBORO stands small and full-body in front of the gate, centre-right; TSUBAKI is in the left foreground, back three-quarter view (her face in profile, the crimson streak visible), brush held low. The paper is blank and white.

PANEL 3 (top right) FLOOR PLAN: a clean top-down diagram:

the gate at the north edge, OBORO marked O just south of it, TSUBAKI marked T near the south edge, a dashed line between T and O (the 180-degree line), the inkstone basin behind T. Three camera icons, ALL on the east side of the line: A behind T's left shoulder looking north, B north-east of T looking at her face, C south-east of O looking at his face.

PANEL 4 (bottom right) PROPS AND EFFECTS on dark grey: the giant brush (1); the two short black brushes (2); one black INK CRANE: a crane-shaped figure made entirely of glossy wet black sumi ink with brush-stroke wings and drips, never a white bird; one long CRIMSON STROKE: a single thick diagonal crimson brush stroke with dry-brush edges on white paper.

Short white panel titles only (CAST, SET A, FLOOR PLAN, PROPS) and the two names. No other text, no calligraphy characters, no letters on the paper.

Keyframe C1: opening, OBORO low angle (shot 1 start) · nanobanana_pro · 9:16 2K

Reference binding: image 1 is the production package (cast, set A, floor plan, props); image 2 is the character model sheet; image 3 is the courtyard background sheet. Keep both character designs exactly; ignore panel layouts, titles and labels.

Opening frame of an anime duel, vertical 9:16. Style: original 2D hand-drawn anime feature, traditional cel animation: hard black ink outlines with tapering line weight, flat colour fills, two-tone cel shading with hard shadow shapes, hand-painted gouache background, palette rice-paper white, sumi black, crimson, dusk gold, slate blue. Not 3D, not photoreal, not smooth digital airbrush.

SETUP C: low angle from knee height, south-east of OBORO, MEDIUM-FULL shot: OBORO fills the lower two thirds of the frame, standing on the white rice-paper floor just in front of the dark wooden gate, the huge low dusk sun directly behind his head and shoulders, giving him a hard gold rim light; sky dusk gold and crimson. He faces screen-LEFT in three-quarter view (toward his unseen opponent), arms held low and slightly out, ONE short black-lacquer brush with black bristles in EACH hand (two brushes total), black ink beginning to drip from both tips. Long silver hair in a high topknot, thin long moustache, narrow amused eyes, black wide-sleeved robe with gold wave embroidery at the hems over a dark grey under-robe, round black inkstone pendant. A calm, smug half smile.

No ink cranes yet. No text, no calligraphy characters, no letters anywhere.

Keyframe B v2: TSUBAKI close-up (shot 2), chained from C1 for light · nanobanana_pro · 9:16 2K

Reference binding: image 1 is the approved opening frame (same world, same gate, same dusk light, same art style: match it exactly); image 2 is the production package (cast, set A, floor plan, props); image 3 is the character model sheet. Keep both character designs exactly; ignore panel layouts, titles and labels.

Close-up frame from an anime duel, vertical 9:16. Style: original 2D hand-drawn anime feature, traditional cel animation: hard black ink outlines with tapering line weight, flat colour fills, two-tone cel shading with hard shadow shapes, hand-painted gouache background, palette rice-paper white, sumi black, crimson, dusk gold, slate blue. Not 3D, not photoreal, not smooth digital airbrush.
LIGHT: the same dusk as image 1: warm dusk-gold sunlight on her face from screen-right with hard cel shadow shapes; behind her a dusk gold and crimson painted sky; no blue or grey sky.

SETUP B: front three-quarter CLOSE-UP of TSUBAKI at her eye height, her face filling about 45 percent of the frame height, eyes CLOSED in calm focus, mouth relaxed; she faces screen-RIGHT in three-quarter view. Short asymmetric black bob longer on the left, ONE crimson streak in her fringe clearly visible, thin ink smudge on her right cheek, white sleeveless crossed top at the neckline, crimson sash edge at the bottom of frame. Wind lifts her fringe. Black crane-shaped shadows sweep across her face and the sky behind her.

No text, no letters.

Keyframe A v2: over her shoulder (shots 3-4), chained from C1 · nanobanana_pro · 9:16 2K

Reference binding: image 1 is the approved opening frame (same world, same gate, same dusk light, same art style: match it exactly); image 2 is the production package (cast, set A, floor plan, props); image 3 is the character model sheet. Keep both character designs exactly; ignore panel layouts, titles and labels.

Frame from an anime duel, vertical 9:16. Style: original 2D hand-drawn anime feature, traditional cel animation: hard black ink outlines with tapering line weight, flat colour fills, two-tone cel shading with hard shadow shapes, hand-painted gouache background, palette rice-paper white, sumi black, crimson, dusk gold, slate blue. Not 3D, not photoreal, not smooth digital airbrush.
LIGHT: the same dusk as image 1: a huge low gold sun, sky dusk gold and crimson, warm gold light; no grey or overcast sky.

SETUP A: over TSUBAKI's LEFT shoulder, camera at her shoulder height, MEDIUM-WIDE. TSUBAKI on frame LEFT in the foreground, back three-quarter view so her profile, the crimson streak in her black bob and her crimson sash are visible, filling the left half of the frame from head to knee. She stands in a deep low lunge holding the giant brush in both bandaged hands, raised high behind her right shoulder, ready to sweep down. THE BRUSH HAS BRISTLES AT ONE END ONLY: one 2-metre pale bamboo shaft; the thick crimson-soaked bristle head is at the TOP end, up behind her head;

the plain bamboo end with the crimson cord is near her hands. No second bristle head.
Background frame RIGHT, small and full-body: OBORO (long SILVER hair in a high topknot, black robe with gold wave hems) standing in front of the same dark wooden gate as image 1 (curved tiled roof, two hanging paper lanterns; not a torii), arms flung wide, one short black brush in each hand, the huge sun behind the gate.
Upper right of frame, between them: a flock of about fifteen INK CRANES diving toward TSUBAKI: each crane is a solid glossy BLACK silhouette made of wet sumi ink, brush-stroke wings, ink drips trailing; pure black, no white or grey feathers, not real birds.
The white rice-paper floor is blank and clean. No text, no letters, no calligraphy characters.

Keyframe C2 v2: OBORO close-up (shots 5-6), chained from C1 · nanobanana_pro · 9:16 2K

Reference binding: image 1 is the approved opening frame (same OBORO, same gate, same dusk sky and sun, same art style and warm light: match it exactly); image 2 is the production package; image 3 is the character model sheet. Keep both character designs exactly; ignore panel layouts, titles and labels.

Close-up frame from an anime duel, vertical 9:16. Style: original 2D hand-drawn anime feature, traditional cel animation: hard black ink outlines with tapering line weight, flat colour fills, two-tone cel shading with hard shadow shapes, hand-painted gouache background, palette rice-paper white, sumi black, crimson, dusk gold, slate blue. Not 3D, not photoreal, not smooth digital airbrush.

SETUP C, closer: MEDIUM CLOSE-UP of OBORO from his chest up, low angle, same side as the opening frame, behind him the same dark wooden gate and the same huge smooth round low dusk sun as image 1 (a plain disc, no spikes), sky dusk gold and crimson, warm gold rim light and warm key on his face; no grey sky, no stone wall, no mountains behind him; black ink rain drops falling straight down through the frame. He faces screen-LEFT in three-quarter view, face filling about 35 percent of the frame height. He holds up his TWO short black-lacquer brushes in front of his chest, one in each hand, both bristle heads still attached, and looks at them with wide surprised eyes, eyebrows raised, mouth slightly open, not smiling yet. Long silver hair in a high topknot, thin long moustache, black robe with gold wave hems, round black inkstone pendant.

No text, no letters.

The scene: 6 shots in ONE generation (take 1, the take in the cut) · seedance_2_5.r2v · InVideo · 13 s, 720p native, 9:16, bitrate high, native audio; refs in order: kfC1, kfB_v2, kfA_v2, kfC2_v2, package, cast

---

Reference binding: image 1 is the OPENING FRAME of shot 1: start exactly on it. Image 2 is the CLOSE-UP frame of TSUBAKI for shot 2 (same face, light, art style). Image 3 is the OVER-THE-SHOULDER frame for shots 3 and 4. Image 4 is the CLOSE-UP frame of OBORO for shots 5 and 6. Image 5 is the PRODUCTION PACKAGE (cast, set, floor plan, props) and image 6 the character model sheet: identity source for every shot. Take faces, hair, wardrobe, brushes, set and art style from them exactly; ignore panel layouts, titles and labels.

Create an exactly 13-second vertical 9:16 anime duel scene: one continuous moment in one place, SIX shots with hard cuts, native audio. Anime action grammar: low angles, a close-up before the strike, smear frames and speed lines on the fast motion, a few impact frames, a held reaction close-up.

Logline: OBORO, master of a hundred strokes, paints a storm of ink cranes; TSUBAKI answers with one.

STYLE (every frame of every shot, including close-ups): original 2D hand-drawn anime feature, traditional cel animation, hard black ink outlines with tapering line weight, flat colour fills, two-tone cel shading with hard shadow shapes, hand-painted gouache backgrounds, animated on twos. Never 3D, never photoreal, never smooth digital airbrush.

LIGHT (every shot): dusk; a huge low gold sun behind the dark wooden gate; sky dusk gold and crimson; warm gold key light with hard cel shadows; no blue or grey overcast sky.

CONTINUITY LOCK (every frame):
- Place: one mountaintop courtyard floored with one sheet of blank white rice paper, black stone weights at its edges, cloud sea below. The dark wooden gate (curved tiled roof, two paper lanterns) is at the north end with the sun behind it. OBORO stands just in front of the gate; TSUBAKI stands at the south end facing him. All cameras stay on the same side: TSUBAKI always looks toward screen-RIGHT; OBORO always looks toward screen-LEFT. No reverse angle.
- TSUBAKI: short asymmetric black bob, ONE crimson streak in her fringe, thin ink smudge on her right cheek, white sleeveless crossed top, crimson sash, black hakama, bandaged forearms. ONE giant brush: a single pale bamboo shaft with ONE crimson-soaked bristle head at one end only. It stays in her hands for the whole scene.
- OBORO: long silver hair in a high topknot, thin long moustache, black wide-sleeved robe with gold wave hems over a dark grey under-robe, round black inkstone pendant. TWO short black brushes, one in each hand, for the whole scene.
- INK CRANES: solid glossy black silhouettes made of wet sumi ink with brush-stroke wings and drips; never white or grey birds.
- Physics: feet stay on the paper; nobody floats. Ink and anything cut falls straight DOWN under gravity onto the paper and leaves black spatters there. The paper stays white except where ink lands.

SHOT 1 (0-2.4 s) SETUP C: low angle from knee height, MEDIUM-FULL on OBORO, exactly the opening frame, slow push-in. He flings both arms wide at once, sleeves snapping; thick black ink whips up from both brush tips in two ribbons and bursts into dozens of ink cranes that spiral up into the gold sky above him. Calm and proud, he says in Japanese: "Hyappa." <silk snap> <wet ink whoosh> <rising flutter of many wings> <low taiko hit>

SHOT 2 (2.4-4.6 s) SETUP B: CLOSE-UP on TSUBAKI, exactly the close-up frame, her face filling 45 percent of the frame, warm gold light on her face. Eyes closed, perfectly calm, not afraid: black crane shadows sweep across her face; she whispers in Japanese: "Hitofude de, tariru." At the end of the shot her eyes snap open, dark red. <howling wind> <whisper> <sudden silence>
SHOT 3 (4.6-6.8 s) SETUP A: over TSUBAKI's left shoulder, exactly the over-the-shoulder frame: she on frame left in the foreground, OBORO small at the gate on frame right, the ink cranes diving at her from the upper right. She whips the giant brush down and across in ONE diagonal sweep; the bristle head PAINTS a thick crimson arc that grows from the tip across the whole frame like fresh wet ink; smear frames and speed lines. Then exactly three impact frames, one frame each: black silhouettes on crimson, crimson on white, back to colour; both characters stay visible; no white-out, no full-frame flash. <huge brush whoosh> <thunderclap impact>
SHOT 4 (6.8-8.8 s) SETUP A, same camera position and axis as shot 3, held: TSUBAKI holds her finished low pose, brush low at the end of the stroke, the crimson arc hanging in the air in front of her. Every ink crane the arc touches splits cleanly in two and collapses into black ink drops that fall straight down onto the white paper. <ink rain pattering on paper>
SHOT 5 (8.8-10.8 s) SETUP C, closer: MEDIUM CLOSE-UP on OBORO, exactly the Oboro close-up frame, the sun behind him, black ink rain falling straight down. He lifts his two brushes in front of his chest; both black bristle heads slide off their shafts, cut clean, and drop straight down out of frame. His eyes go wide in surprise, not smiling yet. <two soft taps>
SHOT 6 (10.8-13 s) SETUP C, same framing, held: his surprise melts into a warm, respectful smile; he says quietly in Japanese: "Migoto." and gives a small bow of his head. <low voice> <one shakuhachi note>

Do not show any writing, calligraphy characters, letters, subtitles, sound-effect lettering, logos or watermarks. Do not change faces, hair, wardrobe or brush counts. No white birds. No full-frame white flash. No reverse angle. Five fingers on every hand.
Audio: Japanese voices, stylised anime sound design: taiko, wind, wings, the loudest hit on the impact frames, ink rain, a final shakuhachi note. No music track.