These prompts ran in order and the later ones use reference images: the sheets, frames and stills made by the earlier image prompts. Make those first, then upload them with each later prompt where it says image 1, @Image1 and so on. The heading above each prompt names the tool and format it ran with.

1. Production package (one 4K image) · nanobanana_pro · InVideo

Reference binding: image 1 is SUNANDA TAI (keep her face, glasses, grey bun, red bindi, maroon-and-mustard sari, grey cardigan exactly); image 2 is MANOHAR (keep his face, red-and-white checked head cloth, light-blue shirt, orange safety vest exactly); image 3 is the stall under the footbridge stairs

(keep the location, the blue tarp, the wooden counter, the stove and the kadhai). Ignore every sheet layout, grey background and handwriting.

One single production package board for an original photoreal documentary short set at a Mumbai street-food stall, laid out as a clean film pre-production document on a dark charcoal background, 16:9, four clearly separated panels:

PANEL 4 (bottom right) PROPS, product-photo style on dark grey: the kadhai on the stove; one vada pav wrapped in a square of plain brown paper; two plain steel coins. Count: 1 kadhai, 1 stove, 1 wrapped vada pav, 2 coins.

Short white panel titles only (CAST, SET A, FLOOR PLAN, PROPS) and the two names. No other text anywhere: no lettering on the gas stove, no badges, no signs, no logos, no brand marks, no lettering on coins.

2. Opening frame t1 · nanobanana_pro

Reference binding: image 1 is the production package (set from camera A, floor plan, props); image 2 is SUNANDA TAI's character sheet and image 3 is MANOHAR's character sheet: take both faces, skin tone, age, hair and wardrobe from images 2 and 3 exactly. Take the stall, counter layout and props from image 1. Ignore panel layouts and labels.

Opening frame of a documentary scene, vertical 9:16. A real candid documentary photograph, not a render: handheld 35mm, available light only, high-ISO grain, slight motion softness at the edges, natural weathered skin with pores, real worn textures, dented steel, wet pavement.

Light, one state: pre-dawn before sunrise. The sky and the street are deep blue. The stall is lit warm by ONE bare bulb hanging on a wire above the counter (it is ON) and by the blue gas flame under the kadhai. No sunlight, no sunrise glow.

Composition, camera A: on the pavement at the counter's right-front corner, chest height, looking diagonally into the stall. MEDIUM two-shot, both from the waist up, both heads in the upper half of the frame:

- SUNANDA TAI on frame LEFT behind the counter, three-quarter view facing screen-right, looking down at the kadhai: early sixties, dark brown sun-weathered skin, grey hair in a low bun, round thin steel-rimmed glasses, small red bindi, thin gold earrings, faded maroon sari with a mustard border, plain grey cardigan with sleeves pushed up, two thin steel bangles on her right wrist. Her right hand holds ONE batter-coated potato ball just above the oil.
- MANOHAR on frame RIGHT on the pavement at the right end of the counter, three-quarter view facing screen-left, watching her, tired and patient: fifties, grey stubble, red-and-white checked cloth tied on his head, faded light-blue shirt, faded orange safety vest with two grey reflective bands. His LEFT hand holds a palm-stem broom, bristles on the pavement.
- Behind them: the grey concrete footbridge stairs and pillar, the blue tarp edge at the top of frame.
No text anywhere: no lettering or badge on the stove, no signs, no logos, no labels. Correct hands with five fingers.

3. Opening frame t2 (edit: empty tray, oil only) · nanobanana_pro

Make only these changes, nothing else:

1. The steel tray on the counter to the right of the stove is EMPTY: no fried vadas anywhere in the frame.
2. The kadhai holds only shimmering hot oil, nothing frying in it yet.
3. MANOHAR's hands are empty and relaxed at his sides; his palm-stem broom now leans upright against the wooden side post of the stall just behind him, bristles on the pavement.
4. SUNANDA wears exactly TWO thin steel bangles on her RIGHT wrist; her LEFT wrist is bare. Her right hand still holds ONE batter-coated potato ball just above the oil.
Vertical 9:16. No text, no lettering or badge on the stove, no signs, no logos. No cables or wires on either person. Correct hands with five fingers.

4. Opening frame t3 (edit: broom leaning, hands free) · nanobanana_pro

Make ONE change only: MANOHAR is NOT holding the broom. Both of his hands are EMPTY, relaxed and hanging open at his sides. His palm-stem broom stands on its own, leaning upright against the right end of the wooden counter, its handle resting on the counter edge and its bristles on the pavement, between the counter and him. Everything else stays identical.
Vertical 9:16. No text, no lettering or badge on the stove, no signs, no logos. Correct hands with five fingers.

6. Shot 2 first frame · nanobanana_pro

Reference binding: image 1 is a crop of the real opening frame of this scene: keep SUNANDA TAI's face, age, glasses, grey bun, bindi, gold earrings, sari, grey cardigan, one thin steel bangle on each wrist, and the footbridge stairs behind her EXACTLY. Image 2 is her character sheet for identity.

Same camera position, now a MEDIUM CLOSE-UP: tight head and shoulders, her face from chin to hairline about 40% of the frame height, three-quarter view facing screen-right, glasses and bindi clear, eyes to screen-right on someone off-frame, a calm matter-of-fact look. Her right hand holds out ONE vada pav in a cone of plain brown paper toward screen-right at chest height, in the lower third. Behind her, softly out of focus: the grey concrete footbridge stairs and railing as in image 1, deep pre-dawn blue. No tarp wall, no kadhai, nothing between camera and her.

7. Shot 3 first frame (insert) · nanobanana_pro

Reference binding: image 1 is a crop of the real opening frame showing the counter's right end, the empty steel tray, the stack of brown paper and the wet pavement: keep this place, its wood, steel and light exactly. Image 2 is MANOHAR's character sheet (light-blue shirt cuff, orange vest edge) and image 3 is SUNANDA's (grey cardigan sleeve, steel bangle, turmeric-stained fingers).

CLOSE-UP INSERT of hands, looking down over the wooden edge of the counter's right end, the stack of plain brown paper squares soft at frame bottom-left, the wet paved pavement softly blurred behind. From frame RIGHT, MANOHAR's LEFT hand (light-blue shirt cuff, edge of the orange vest) is held out palm up, with TWO plain steel coins lying flat on his open palm, offering them. From frame LEFT, SUNANDA's EMPTY hand (grey cardigan sleeve pushed up, one thin steel bangle, turmeric-stained fingers), palm down, is just arriving above his hand, not yet touching, not touching the coins. No kadhai, no stove, no flame in frame. No other objects in either hand.

8. Shot 4 first frame · nanobanana_pro

Reference binding: image 1 is a crop of the real opening frame showing MANOHAR on the pavement: keep his face, age, grey stubble, red-and-white checked head cloth, light-blue shirt, orange safety vest with grey reflective bands, and the background behind him (the concrete pillars, the wet pavement, the dim street) EXACTLY. Image 2 is his character sheet for identity.

Same camera position, now a MEDIUM CLOSE-UP: tight head and shoulders, his face from chin to hairline about 40% of the frame height, three-quarter view facing screen-LEFT, his eyes on someone just off the left edge of frame, never at camera, a tired face just beginning a grateful smile. His RIGHT hand holds ONE vada pav in a cone of plain brown paper against his chest, in the lower third. The warm bare-bulb light falls on his face from upper-left. Behind him, softly out of focus: the grey concrete pillars and the wet pavement from image 1, deep pre-dawn blue. NO railway tracks, NO overhead wires or poles, NO tree line, NO open bright sky. A real candid documentary photograph: handheld 35mm, available light, high-ISO grain, natural weathered skin with pores, real worn textures. Light exactly as in image 1: pre-dawn deep blue ambient, warm bare-bulb light from upper-left. Vertical 9:16. No text, no logos, no signs. Correct hands with five fingers.

9. THE SCENE: 4 shots in ONE generation (take 3, the take in the cut) · seedance_2_5.r2v · InVideo · 13 s, 720p native, 9:16, bitrate high, native audio Reference binding (a reference chain: every shot starts exactly on its own frame): image 1 is the FIRST FRAME of SHOT 1; image 2 is the FIRST FRAME of SHOT 2; image 3 is the FIRST FRAME of SHOT 3; image 4 is the FIRST FRAME of SHOT 4. Each shot keeps the background, light, faces and wardrobe of its own frame. Image 5 is SUNANDA TAI's character sheet and image 6 is MANOHAR's, for identity only. Ignore sheet layouts and labels.

Create an exactly 13-second vertical 9:16 documentary-realism scene: one continuous pre-dawn moment at one Mumbai street-food stall, FOUR shots with hard cuts, native natural sound only.

Camera, hard requirement for every shot: handheld on the shoulder of a documentary camera operator, 35mm, small natural breathing sway, occasional tiny focus hunts; no gimbal glide, no zoom, no slow motion. The camera always stays on the PAVEMENT side at the counter's right-front corner, the same side as the opening frame; SUNANDA always frame LEFT facing screen-right, MANOHAR always frame RIGHT facing screen-left. No reverse angle, no shot from inside the stall, never shooting across the kadhai.

Logline: before Mumbai wakes, a street-food cook fries the first vada pav of the day, and the first one is never for sale.

Look: a real candid documentary: high-ISO grain, natural weathered skin with pores, real worn textures, dented steel, wet pavement. Light, one state for the whole scene: pre-dawn before sunrise, deep blue sky and street; the stall and both faces lit warm from upper-left by ONE bare bulb hanging above the counter, on from the first frame and never changing, plus the blue gas flame. No sunlight, no sunrise, no brighter sky in any shot.

CONTINUITY LOCK (every frame of every shot):
- SUNANDA TAI, early sixties: dark brown weathered skin; grey hair in a low bun; round thin steel-rimmed glasses, always on; small red bindi; thin gold earrings; faded maroon sari with a mustard border; plain grey cardigan, sleeves pushed up; exactly ONE thin steel bangle on EACH wrist; turmeric-stained fingers. She stays behind the counter.

- MANOHAR, fifties: grey stubble; red-and-white checked cloth tied on his head; faded light-blue shirt; faded orange safety vest with two grey reflective bands; grey trousers; no cables, no lanyard, no earphones. He stays on the pavement at the right end of the counter. He is NOT holding the broom: his palm-stem broom leans against the right end of the counter the whole scene.
- On the counter, fixed: ONE wire basket of pav buns at the front left; ONE steel bowl of yellow batter; ONE single-burner steel gas stove with a blue flame and ONE black iron kadhai of oil; ONE EMPTY steel tray; ONE small stack of plain brown paper squares. Food count: in shot 1 exactly ONE vada goes into the oil and nothing else is ever in the kadhai; from shot 2 that one vada is inside the parcel and the kadhai holds only oil.
- PROP ROUTES (who holds what, in every shot): the ONE vada pav in a cone of plain brown paper is in SUNANDA's right hand in shot 2 until MANOHAR's RIGHT hand takes it in shot 2; from then on it stays in his RIGHT hand. The TWO plain steel coins are in MANOHAR's LEFT hand only: hidden in his loosely closed left hand in shots 1 and 2, on his open left palm in shot 3, then closed inside his left fist at his side in shot 4. Nothing ever appears in a hand without being handed over on screen.
- Physics: every moving object has a visible cause; nothing floats; oil stays inside the kadhai; steam rises only from the oil.

SHOT 1 (0-3.5s) starts exactly on image 1. MEDIUM two-shot, handheld: SUNANDA lowers the ONE batter-coated potato ball from her fingers into the hot oil; it sinks and the oil bursts into a loud bubbling sizzle with a puff of steam. MANOHAR watches from frame right, hands empty at his sides, the broom leaning on the counter. <sharp oil sizzle and pops> <crows far off>

SHOT 2 (3.5-6.5s) starts exactly on image 2 and keeps its background: the footbridge stairs and railing behind her, no tarp wall, no kadhai in frame. MEDIUM CLOSE-UP on SUNANDA, three-quarter facing screen-right, with a slow handheld push-in toward her face. She holds out the ONE vada pav in its brown paper cone toward screen-right, eyes on him, never at camera; MANOHAR's RIGHT hand, light-blue sleeve, enters from frame right and takes the cone from her fingers, and his hand with the cone leaves frame right. <paper crinkle> <oil sizzle>
SHOT 3 (6.5-9.5s) starts exactly on image 3: CLOSE-UP INSERT over the counter's right end, the wet pavement behind, no kadhai in frame. The TWO coins are already lying on MANOHAR's open LEFT palm from the first frame; he pushes his palm forward toward her, offering them. SUNANDA's EMPTY hand, palm down, folds his fingers closed over the coins and gently pushes his fist back toward him. Her fingers never hold or touch a coin directly; she never gives him anything. Off-screen she says softly in Hindi, warm and matter-of-fact: "Rehne do. Pehla hamesha tera." <coins clink softly> <her quiet voice>
SHOT 4 (9.5-13s) starts exactly on image 4 and keeps its background: the grey concrete pillars and the wet pavement behind him, the warm bulb glow at the top; NO railway tracks, NO wires, NO trees, NO open sky. MEDIUM CLOSE-UP on MANOHAR, three-quarter facing screen-LEFT, eyes on her just off the left edge of frame, never at camera, with a slow handheld push-in until his face fills about 40% of the frame height. The cone is in his RIGHT hand against his chest; his left fist, closed on the coins, stays down out of frame. His tired face breaks into a slow, grateful smile and a small nod. Smiling, not crying. <oil sizzle> <crows>

Do not show subtitles, captions, letters, numbers or any text; no lettering or badge on the stove, no signs, no logos. Do not add music, score or narration. Do not change faces, glasses, head cloth, bangles or any clothing item between shots. Do not move, add or remove props. No extra people. Five fingers on every hand.

Audio: natural location sound only: oil sizzle, paper, coins, her one quiet Hindi line, crows, a distant train. No music.
