Camera first: inside a gaming PC case at gecko eye height, 35mm macro feel, gentle handheld. The picture is always one single full frame. Vertical 9:16.

STYLE: polished stylised 3D animated comedy, soft coloured LED light inside the case (teal and violet), big readable gecko faces. No text and no logos on any part.

CAST, original cartoon geckos the size of a thumb. DAD: green, round belly, big golden eyes. MUM: pale yellow with orange spots. Two small KIDS, bright green. The SMALLEST kid has a tiny curl on its head.

SET: the inside of a PC case: a long graphics card like a shelf, a large round case fan with seven white blades mounted on the case wall, cables, a clear glass side panel as the far wall of the case, facing the camera, held by one silver thumbscrew at its corner. A bright room lies beyond the glass.

MAP: the camera is inside the case looking out. The fan on screen-left, the graphics card in the middle, the glass side panel behind them facing us, the room beyond it.

0:00 to 0:03. Already moving in the first frame. The family lounges on the graphics card. The SMALLEST kid lies at the end of the card next to the slowly turning fan, eyes closed, enjoying the breeze.

0:03 to 0:06. One continuous shot, no edit. Close on the silver thumbscrew at the corner of the glass, large in frame. A huge human thumb and finger turn it out. The glass panel lifts away from the case and bright daylight floods in.

0:06 to 0:09. Close on DAD, his face a third of the frame height, eyes huge, looking at the opening. He whispers to the family: "Act like a fan."

0:09 to 0:12. The four geckos leap onto the fan and grab one blade each, and the fan turns very slowly, like a lazy carousel, the geckos stiff as statues, legs splayed.

0:12 to 0:15. One continuous shot. DAD spins past the camera with a big forced grin, his face a third of the frame height. Behind him, one giant human eye fills the open side of the case and blinks once. The film ends with the fan still turning.

Sound: a soft fan hum, a thumbscrew squeak, room noise rushing in, DAD's whisper in English, lip-synced, a slow whoosh as the geckos turn. No music.
